LOST BOYS LOCATED IN A LUMBER CAMP

Nephew of Herman Dick Found to be Working North of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

Announcement in this morning's Chicago newspapers of the finding of the two missing Chicago boys, one a nephew of Herman Dick, who owns considerable property in this city, and whose wife is a former Janesville resident, in a lumber camp north of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, clears up the mystery surrounding their disappearance from Yale the first of the present month. The report that they were working at the man's end of a good-sized heavy timber tract, evidently their relatives who have been most anxious since the two, Matthew Dick and Paul Martin, reported their decision to make their own way in the world to their families.

The young men, who gave up university courses and the prospect of high salaries, together with their advantages attaching thereto, were knee deep in swamp timber and perspiring freely over sixteen inch logs that seldom move save to the laboring grunts of the seasoned lumberjack.

Parents Notified? Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick, parents of Chicago, are thought to have been notified and on their way to search for their sons who are vigorously engaged in battering down the ramparts to a rude wilderness.

William P. Martin, father of Paul Martin, could not be reached in his residence in Lake Forest. It is believed he, too, is on the way to his son. The parents of both boys, while they have expressed themselves as delighted with the fearless and ambitious attitude of their sons, have a desire to keep the young men at home and are anxious to have them enter business nearer home.

Left Yale Nov. 4. Young Dick and Martin left Yale on Nov. 4. There was nothing mysterious so far as their departure was concerned. They calmly resigned from the university and made the announcement that they were going out into the world to make their own way. They said it would avail nothing to search for them because they expected to stay away until they had made something of themselves.

Herman B. Dick, an uncle of Matthew Dick, made a hurried trip to New York with the idea of reconciling the young men to a mercantile life with good positions. He was not successful in finding them.

PRICES IN RETAIL
MARKETS STAY FIRM

Householder Joyful Over Fact That Prices Have Not Advanced in Markets for Some Time.

Although butter is selling for forty-two cents a pound, coal for twelve dollars a ton, and flour for nearly three dollars a sack, Janesville consumers find some solace for these hardships in the steadiness of the retail market for the past two or three weeks. During all this time, in which the election has taken place and a number of food probes have been instituted in various parts of the country, the vegetable and fruit market has not advanced a cent. It is true that prices have not decreased, but the householder has almost ceased to look for this movement and has steadied himself to be content as long as they do not advance daily.

Janesville merchants are looking for relief from the results of price investigations being pushed at this time. A large decline in the price of wheat during the past week may be felt in a dropping off of the present exorbitant price of flour, though dealers do not hold out many hopes in this.

The quality of fresh vegetables for this time of year is exceptionally fine. There is much good fruit in stock, with a fine showing of apples.

HALF OF VOTE WILL HAVE TO BE TALLIED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

New York, Nov. 21.—While the returns from forty-six of the eighty-eight counties of the state of California have been canvassed by Secretary of State Jordan, the work is only half finished as four of the twelve counties remaining are among the largest in the state. The tabulations must be completed by midnight of November 27th. Corrections made by the staff of workers, it is said, will not materially affect the result.

National Chairman McCormick of the democratic committee makes the announcement that the results thus far show that Wilson will have all thirteen of the electors on the completed returns and wonders why the customary congratulations from Republican National Chairman Willcox are not sent.

It is known that former Candidate Hughes has his letter of congratulations to President Wilson all written but has withheld it on advice of the members of the C. O. P. national committee who are keeping close tab on the situation.

It developed during the day that informal consultations contemplating a "new deal" have been participated in by A. T. Hart, who managed the Hughes western campaign; James R. Garfield, progressive, Ohio; Republican National Committeeman Stanley, Kansas; Republican National Committeeman Howell, Nebraska; Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the progressive national convention; Harold L. Jones, progressive national committeeman, Illinois, and others.

GAMBLING PLACES
DEFINED BY OWEN

Madison, Nov. 21.—Pool rooms, ice cream shops, cigar stores and other places of the kind operating punchboards, slot machines and other contrivances of chance, are gambling houses and as such can be prosecuted under the state law.

This is the opinion of Attorney General Owen to District Attorney C. M. Hilliard of the fact that school children often frequent the shops in question does not change their character, as long as they are permitted to gamble in said houses and as such the same continually I believe there is no question but that the places are gambling houses, and the keepers can be prosecuted.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN EFFICIENCY MEETING

Many People Attend Enthusiastic Meeting Held Here Yesterday at Methodist Church.

People from every corner of the county yesterday assembled at the Methodist church at the largest ever held in this state, to take stock of the work being done in this county and to exchange suggestions and ideas on the organization and conduct of efficient Sunday schools.

J. L. Rogers, the general secretary of the Sunday schools throughout the entire state, was present; his talk was a great help to the county and district officers to see very clearly exactly what their duties should be and how these should be met.

All of the county officers, six of the eighty county superintendents, four of the six district presidents and a large number of district superintendents took part in the conference. The session was intended largely for the administrative officers of the fifty-two Sunday schools scattered through the county, and was, as the name implies, a conference of the county officers, as efficient a basis as possible, so as to reach the largest number of people and to accomplish the most with them.

Last year Rock was the only county in the state to take a front line position in the maintenance of a high standard for Sunday schools; this year, however, there are three such counties. From the interest displayed at the sessions yesterday it is practically assured that Rock county will maintain its former high position during the next year.

CATHOLIC SODALITY HAS LARGE DINNER

Young Ladies' Society at St. Patrick's Church Entertains at Banquet at Grand Hotel.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Patrick's church entertained its members at a seven-thirty dinner on Monday evening at the Grand Hotel. A very elegant five-course dinner was served and covers were laid for one hundred and twenty-five. Professor Gray's orchestra rendered several selections during the repast, after which a few words of welcome were given by Miss Agnes Weber. A short address by the Reverend William Mahoney, a reading by Miss E. Josephine Fitzgerald and several piano selections by Miss Mary Daly. Each member gave an excellent toast. The evening's festivities closed by the entire company present joining in the singing of several songs.

This was the first social affair given by the Sodality this season and was a great success. The committee having charge of the event were: Misses Marie Donahue, Margaret Denning, Nellie Harrison, Anna Kelly, Lillian Nelson and Agnes Weber. The home-like surroundings, the attractive lighting and the beautiful gowns of the guests, made a picture that will be remembered for some time and the committee is to be congratulated.

O. E. S.: A regular meeting of Janesville Chapter No. 69, O. E. S., will be held Wednesday evening, November 22nd, at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Temple, with work. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Ella L. Wills, secretary.

LOOK OUT FOR FAKE
MAGAZINE SOLICITOR

Beware of Man Calling Himself C. E. Elsie and Saying He is a Former Janesville Boy.

Depending upon the credulity and kindness of the people, a young man has been circulating about among Janesville people soliciting subscriptions to various periodicals. He uses as an excuse the fact that he is trying to do work through the university, and has taken this method of raising money. It is said that the man is a fake, and that his business is merely the old, old bunco game which has been carried on for so many years and yet finds many people willing to be taken in before making an accurate investigation.

One woman who became a victim of the scheme paid the man part of the money and sent a check for the balance to the firm in Chicago for which the man was working. The check was returned by the postal authorities because there was no such address in Chicago, nor had they ever heard of a firm of the name given by the young man.

A warning to all then against this fake solicitor who calls himself C. E. Elsie, and who claims to be a former Janesville boy, and who further maintains that he is now living in Madison where he is attending the university, is issued in the face of the disastrous experiences reported.

WALTER AIRIS MARRIES VERA WILCOX IN CHICAGO

Walter Airis of this city and Miss Vera Wilcox of Chicago, were quietly married in Chicago yesterday. Mr. Airis had said nothing of his coming marriage to anyone, and his many friends in Janesville will be surprised to learn of it. Miss Wilcox lived in Janesville for many years, but for the past year has made her home in Chicago. Both are well known in Janesville. They will make their home in this city after a brief wedding journey.

WHAT'S GOOD HOTEL? HEALTH BOARD TELLS

(JANESVILLE NEWS SERVICE)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—Approximately 4,000 hotels under license in the state are listed in the 1916 official directory of hotels, just issued by the health board of health. Hotel names and addresses are listed in alphabetical order. The directory is a valuable reference for the traveling public who are desirous of securing a good hotel and of knowing the state rules and regulations governing the operation of hotels. Copies are being mailed to all hotels, and will be sent to members of the traveling public who apply.

Declaring "What is a Good Hotel," the department declares the secret of successful hotel operation to be the combination of sanitation and service. "Sanitation," says the bulletin, "includes cleanliness, wholesome food, safe service, and the convenience of guests."

The health board also lists the requirements of a good hotel and of good service. Copies are being mailed to all hotels, and will be sent to members of the traveling public who apply.

Perfect sanitation is approached when the garbage is disposed of in a proper manner, when basements are kept free from rubbish, when the kitchen is kept clean and well lighted and when the sleeping rooms and corridors are kept clean and sweet, and when the refuse is disposed of in a proper manner.

Service requires employees who are clean, neat and free from disease, and who are of good temper, constant and ready to serve and please patrons; giving up to every rule of conduct for the attainment of success.

Both sanitation and service can be had in every hotel by a policy of co-operation between proprietor, employees and the public. The hotel that follows this plan usually is the hotel that makes money.

CONCRETE HIGHWAY IN GREEN COUNTY

Monroe, Wis., Nov. 21.—Green county's first stretch of concrete road will connect the city of Monroe with the county farm, a distance of nearly three miles. This decision has been reached by the county board of supervisors, and an appropriation of $5,000 has been voted, which will be added to the appropriation of $5,000 made in 1914 for the improvement of this highway. A request for an appropriation of $5,000 from the state highway fund will be made.

The question of making an appropriation of one million dollars for the building of concrete roads in Green county will be one of the matters which will come up during the present session of the county board, and as the matter will have to be put up to a referendum vote of the taxpayers, and if favored by them, the money will not be available before 1917, the building of the concrete highway between the city and the county farm will be made in the nature of a test of this kind of construction, as the road is one most traveled in this section of the state.

RED BLOTCHES DISFIGURED HEAD

Of Little Girl. Itched and Burned. Caused Scales to Form and Hair to Fall Out. Entirely

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl's trouble began with red blotches on her head and matter came out of her pores. The blotches looked like perspiration. They itched and burned. They caused scales to form and hair to fall out. Entirely healed by CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and then bought more. In less than three weeks her head was entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs.

POOR COUNTING.

The slowness with which election returns came in after the voting of November 7, emphasizes the idea that a great many people are not good counters. It would seem a simple enough matter for a group of men to count a few hundred ballots, classify them, and tabulate them, and get the figures in a comparatively few hours.
But there have been thousands of predicts this time where it took as many days to get the totals as it should have taken hours.

As has been remarked before, some of the states have this work carefully systematized and they get their returns in a few hours. In others the counters make mistakes for days. Apparently they make mistakes so approximate that the total of the number received by the several candidates does not equal the total of the votes cast. So the counters have to go over and over the different bunches of ballots, trying to locate the errors.

There are a great many people who cannot count and add simple sums accurately. Often they are well educated persons. But somehow they lack concentration of mind. Their attention drifts off to other things and soon they are omitting a number or counting something twice.

Many people get nervous and hurried over any such work as counting or simple arithmetic. Probably many ballot counters, trying to get through their work in a hurry, will count two ballots as one. They worry their porcupine heads, while the crowds around the bulletin boards and the politicians and candidates, big and little, are cursing the tardy work of compiling the figures.

It is the same way when the majority of people have any sums or figures to do. They hurry and fail to concentrate and spend three times as much time on it as should be necessary for careful and methodical people.

THE CHURCH FAIRS.

The season of church, society, and charity fairs and sales is upon us.
The few weeks before Christmas are a peculiarly favorable time for such events, as many people depend upon them for purchase of Christmas presents. But from now until spring most of the organizations of certain types and some form of sale a regular part of their financial program.

Of course these fairs are not based on sound economics. It would be a lot cheaper for those who buy, sell,
and work, to take out of their pocket
the same amount of money and give it. You may make up a sofa pillow with material costing $1.00 and put $1.00 worth of time on it, and finally sell it for 75 cents. The church workers exhaust themselves with the labor of the thing, and the results are pitifully meager.

But for all that, the fairs and sales take rather a skillful advantage of certain weaknesses of human nature.
And they are not dissuadable workings around with a subscription paper is the most sorrowful employment known to man. Wherever one goes the smile of greeting is changed to a frown, and you feel yourself a nuisance.

Economic as these sales are, the same amount of money can not usually be raised in any other way. Soldiers could not be found who will go to see all the people who will come to a sale and buy. And so for many years people will no doubt go on hoodwinking themselves, and thinking they are making money for a good cause by this amusingly left-handed method.

NINETY DAYS.

The present administration plans to map out a program for legislation by the coming session of the Wisconsin legislature, that should not take longer than ninety days to enact. Let us hope the plans will not miscarry and the results will be satisfactory. The legislature should not be in session
longer than three months at best.
The previous delays have been caused by long, drawn-out, useless debates on questions that could be settled in committee rooms. The assembly and senate were cursed with members who thought it their bounden duty to block every bit of legislation until

they could have their individual say on the measure—either for or against it—and in consequence hours and days were lost. It is safe to say that in the last session, in the assembly alone, four men talked more than a week apiece, wasted their energy as it were simply to stand in the limelight
for a few hours. Governor Philipp hopes the session will end in ninety days and so does the public.

THE CONTINUATION SCHOOL.

The continuation school offers many courses for the busy man or woman who did not have time to specialize in certain lines during their actual school days, that is well worth considering. It is a boon to many and the advantages offered should be taken up with enthusiasm by those who can receive a direct benefit. Recently an announcement was made of a course in German. One young girl,
a clerk in a local store, made the remark: "I want that course. So many people ask me if I can speak German and I would be worth more to my employers." This is the object of the courses offered. To make the students who take them worth more to themselves by becoming more valuable to their employers. It is a great step forward and the public should take advantage of the opportunity offered.

The question is asked, what has become of the man who used to draw a gun in a dispute over a close election?
Well, in a lot of cases he has merely retired to the safe shelter of his office and prepared a red hot statement on his typewriter.

The political prophets having been driven to the depths of their holes by the falsifying of all their predictions of his majesties, will reappear with undiminished confidence and authority a few weeks before the next election.

Two naval aviators were killed at Washington by the explosion of their own bomb, but fortunately for our national efficiency there are plenty of others who are sure it could never happen to them.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota advises the girls to marry only farmers.
At the present prices of food products,
it's the one way for the girls to be sure of enough to eat.

After declaiming on the glorious annihilation of their newly acquired franchise, it looks as if the women in the suffrage states voted just like their husbands.

Apparently many of the ballot counters this year thought that election returns can be compiled any old time after the chores are done and the wood sawed up.

The stock brokers were ready to use
the election of either candidate as news with which values could either be depressed or advanced.

Detectives have been guarding the ballot boxes in many doubtful districts, but it is not stated who is guarding the detectives.

Where the votes in close states are recounted, the recount may be nearly as correct as the original tally.

The hunting parties are having fine success in buying game from the farmer boys.

Both sides are crying fraud, and both sides are probably right in that claim.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

CHARLIE CHAPLIN.
For long I scorned to see thee,
merry sprite,
Saying, "Such hoodlum pranks
should be unlawful."
The low of a brow he charms—but
me, goodnight!
"I'll bet he's awful!"
"Aye, sootily! the rascal but a
To tangle with custard pie a fellow mortal!"
That is a very stupid thing, I'm sure.
Whereat to chortle!"

And thus I spoke till lately did I see (Perforce, a lady took me) all the capers;
You're just as funny as they say
you be,
The daily papers.

The walk, the cane, are very well,
but say,
I most acclaim, I'm most diverted under
The comic looks that o'er thy features play.
Hey, you're a wonder!

I have a hunch that when you come to go (Jove stay the hour!) to your reward hereafter,
The dext'rous Shades will chuckle
at you so
They'll die of laughter!

There's one pleasant thing about us self-centered persons. We don't try to reform others.

Misfortunes and Triplets never come singly.

And So They Will
Though we vary, yours, it's true
And he was eighty-one or two,
They wed. And to her friends
She said, "Though scarcely past
my teens
It's just as well. You know this means
Will justify my ends."

A MOMENT WITH THE MUSE.
Handed down as hand-me-downs,
A homely cuss is Henry Hose, his face it is not fair to see; he wears a wen upon his nose, oh, he is homely
as can be; and yet, I find if I am seized with fits of gloom, if I dull blue, I'm always more than greatly pleased when Hen comes ambling
into view.
Hen's face, though graceless and
uncouth, less lovely than the truth,
more fair than fairer faces are. Have I not seen this Henry Hose meet some poor weak and pallid kink and say to him, "So help me, Hose, you're getting on her feet! I think I never getting on quite so hale; you're looking younger every day." He tells him then a comic tale. The old man hobbles on his way. But now upon his winking brow there shines the radiance of cheer; his step is brisk,
he snickers now, "I'm gittin' younger every year!" "Such are the deeds of homely Hen and worthy ones they are, say I, in may not be a little
but then he is the cheeriest little guy.
Had I to choose of outward gear,
a valiant brow, heroic nose; could I

select another face, I'd fain resemble Henry Hose. I'd gaze among the world of men and scatter cheer and hope and peace and thoughts of joy
as homely Hen has done—and may his tribe increase!

Mix in and swap punches with Battling Destiny and you'll get a shade at least in half the rounds.

PLAN GERMAN PAPER FOR SOFIA, BULGARIA

Berlin, Nov. 21.—For the improvement of relations of all kinds between Germany and Bulgaria, the German-Bulgarian society of Berlin has decided to create and support for the time being a daily German newspaper in Sofia. This was decided upon at a recent meeting of the Society in a large hotel here, at which Duke Ernst Guenther of Schleswig-Holstein, the president presided.

The prospective newspaper will make a specialty of extended and reliable trade and business reports, for the special benefit of German commercial circles. The paper will also issue a year book for the Society,
gotten up by prominent statesmen,
authors and educationalists in the German and Bulgarian languages.

There will also be a legal section,
in which there will appear a translation of the Bulgarian legal code. In January of next year the Society plans to bring to Germany a number of Bulgarian artists and musicians who will hold exhibitions and exhibitions here.

The membership of the Society has been steadily on the increase, ever since Bulgaria entered the war, and the organization has been supported and financed by very considerable donations from both German and Bulgarian sources. The money subscribed is sufficient to carry out all the ambitious plans of the Society for next year.

BRITAIN HAS NEED FOR FOOD DIRECTOR; NO ONE WANTS JOB

London, Nov. 21.—A new high office—that of food director—has been created by the British government,
but for once there has been no rush
of notables to undertake the task.
Batocki's experience in Germany seems likely to deter the men most likely to accept the position.

The choice now seems to rest between Lord Milner, former high commissioner for South Africa, and Lord Devonport. The latter would be the more popular selection because of his unrivaled shipping knowledge and his control of the biggest provision business in Great Britain. Milner
however is perhaps more acceptable to the government.

Some sections want Walter Runc-iman, who is responsible for the scheme, to take the job himself, but he prefers to retain his position as president of the Board of Trade.

The food situation has strengthened
the hands of the powerful prohibition faction, and the latter would be glad to make Great Britain "dry" for the period of the war. Prohibition members of the House of Commons have served notice that they will introduce a motion to prohibit the manufacture of all intoxicating liquor.

The notice declares that prohibition is necessary in view of Mr. Runc-iman's grave statements respecting the shortage of sugar, corn and other cereals.

The Daily Chronicle points out that a vast amount of the necessities of life are being absorbed into the property of the government. It criticizes the "powerful group in parliament allied with the liquor interests."

A petition recently was submitted to the government by a thousand of the most distinguished persons in the empire, asking that all liquor licenses be suspended for the duration of the war. This petition was signed by leaders in art, literature, science and industry and many admirals and generals.

Taking the people as a whole the new system of food control will be welcomed, but for the thousands who mainly affected, take the view that the scheme will at least prevent further material rises in the price of food. It is officially admitted that prices have risen seventy-eight per cent since the war began.

The newspapers unanimously approve the Runciman plan. Sir Henry Dalzell, M. P., summed up the opinion of members of parliament, saying:
"It is the right step. It is a pity it was not taken sooner."

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.

(This week's mystery.)
The next morning, when Shadow waked, he found his wife, who wore his green tie. All through breakfast
he avoided his wife's eyes.
When the maid, trembling, left the room after serving the hotcakes, Mrs.
Walton spoke to her husband.
"Shadow, has it come to this?"
"You've got eyes, can't you?" he replied shortly, pouring vinegar on his hotcakes in his strained effort to appear unconcerned.

His wife took up a coffee cup and crushed it between her fingers, so that it shattered into her lap in a thousand pieces.
"Shall I leave the house, or will you?" she whispered tensely.

"Hush! She may be listening at the kitchen door," warned Shadow.
"Let her!" laughed his wife bitterly. "It's all over now. The last straw was driven Thursday. You didn't think I knew? And she rose abruptly, packed her trunk, and went out with it. As soon as the door closed behind her, Shadow, with a despairing cry, tore the green tie
from about his neck, rushed into the kitchen and strangled the maid to death with it.

AEROMAN'S FUNERAL DRAMATIC WAR SCENE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Quentin, France, Nov. 21.—While fellow aviators wheeled their machines
overhead and dropped wreaths of flowers upon his coffin, Lieutenant Wint-gen, next to Capt. Boelcke the most successful German aviator, flying in the west and chief competitor of the ill-fated First Lieutenant Immelman,
was borne to his last resting place.
He had been killed in an air battle
late in September.

Lieutenant Wintgen's burial was one of the most dramatic episodes in the history of the little French city, which has had its fill of the kind of walked through the war brings. It was person quartered in St. Quentin, and by a large number of civilians as well.
The interment was in the local cemetery by special wish of the dead flier, who had asked that in case he fell he should be buried as near as possible to the scene of his death.

After a heart-rending service in the little evangelical church, Wintgen's body, in a black and white coffin smothered in floral offerings was placed on a gun carriage and carried to the cemetery. Behind the coffin walked three fellow aviators, who with Wintgen have won the coveted order Pour le Merite—Baron Althaus, First Lieutenant Buddeke, who has been flying for the Turkish army, and Lieutenant Frank.

At the head of the funeral procession
marched an honor company.
Near the coffin was Wintgen's closest friend, the flier Lieutenant Hoehnfort,
who was the only witness to Wintgen's death, and who carried the many orders that had been conferred on the famous aviator since the beginning of the war.

In the procession behind the gun carriage were representatives of the commanding general, and hundreds of representatives of the various flying corps of the many German armies, all of whom had known and appreciated Wintgen and his exceptional ability as an aviator.

At the cemetery, while a comrade
of the dead Lieutenant spoke a few final words, two aviator friends of the deceased who had followed the funeral procession in their aeroplanes, let their machines volplane to within a short distance of the ground and let fall floral wreaths, and then opened up with their machine guns the crashing military salute of three volleys
for the dead.

ARRANGE A PROGRAM FOR DEDICATION OF NEW STREET LIGHTS

T. N. Witten of Trenton, Mo., Originator of the Trenton Idea, Will Be Principal Speaker.

It has been definitely decided to publicly dedicate the new ornamental street lighting system which will be installed in the city of Janesville December 14th, and to that end the Commercial club have planned a program which will include a short presentation speech by Mayor Fathens, an outline of the Commercial club's work in bringing about this lighting plan by W. H. Dougherty, and a talk on community building by T. N. Witten of Trenton, Mo., known all over the United States as the originator of the Trenton idea. A retail hardware dealer himself, he has made himself an expert in expounding an idea which originated in his mind and with which he had much to do towards presenting the various questions to the people themselves and for the upbuilding of the community in which Trenton is located.

Mr. Witten is not unknown to Janesville people. He gave an interesting talk here before the Twilight club, a year or two ago and comes as the guest of J. A. Craig. Mr. Witten speaks in Milwaukee the night before he will be heard in this city.

The Mayor has been secured for the use of the people for that evening, and the Bower City Band will render music for the occasion. The streets will be decorated in the evening with a new mark for Janesville's originality.

The dedication will also occur at the opening of the holiday season, and the various houses of the city will make preparations to fittingly mark this opening of the Christmas season.

These plans were discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Commercial club yesterday, and other matters of importance were taken up, among them the report of the Chicago chapter, which was presented by J. A. Craig. Mr. Witten, who is a stockholder in the city, and who has indicated a desire to move out of Chicago on account of the disturbances, A. P. Lovejoy, R. E. Wisner, George E. King and P. V. Kuhn spent the day in that city and Mr. King, as chairman of the committee, reported that they visited several factories and that one or two of them seemed like live propositions, if the citizens of Janesville could meet the demands placed upon them.

Janesville is in competition with several other cities on these propositions, and the town that presents the most attractive picture is pretty much to secure the industry.

One concern is a stock selling idea covering an automobile tractor; another is a factory, reported that financial assistance, as well as considerable other assistance. It is expected that representatives from one or the other of these factories will come here to look over the city and it is hoped that representatives of another factory will come here within a short time.

MATRIMONIAL

Birkel-Polzin.
Miss Lena Birkel of this city and John Polzin of Leyden were united in marriage Monday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Rev. Father Goebel performing the ceremony. The best man was John Schumacher and the bride was attended by Miss Eva Polzin, sister of the groom.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Silvert Johnson.
Death came to Mrs. Silvert Johnson this morning at seven o'clock at the home of her niece, the Misses Olson, on West Bluff street. Mrs. Johnson was born in Lansver, Norway, March 12, 1844, and had made her home in Janesville for many years. She leaves to mourn her loss, in addition to her two nieces, a husband and one brother, Hans Gunnness, of this city. Funeral announcement will be made later.

Mrs. Charlotte R. Nessling.
From Chicago there comes the report of the death of Mrs. Charlotte R. Nessling, wife of Samuel C. Nessling, of this city. Mrs. Nessling was known to many people in Janesville and had visited here many times. Mrs. Nessling has for years been a cripple and it is well known among the Janesville railroad men.

Daily Thought.

There are certain times in our life when we find ourselves in circumstances that not only press upon us, but seem to weigh us down altogether. They give us, however, not only the opportunity, but they impose upon us the duty of elevating ourselves, and thereby fulfilling the purpose of the Divine Being in our creation.—Goths.

That's Why.

The woman who claims to know the most about how to raise children usually has none of her own to practice on.

150 "PALS" AID HIM BID BACHELOR DAYS LAST FOND FAREWELL

Friends in Testimonial to "Bill" Langdon at Great Stag Banquet at Myers Hotel.

"Good Bye Dear Old Bachelor Days," sang between one hundred and one hundred and fifty friends and acquaintances of William P. "Bill" Langdon at the Myers Hotel, in what without a doubt, was the most auspicious farewell to single blessedness ever accorded a young man in Janesville. "Bill," on Saturday, weds Miss Jessica Mae Barry, formerly of this city, at the home of her parents at Clinton, Iowa.

It was a merry and happy throng which crowded the big dining room to its capacity. Not an idle moment prevailed from the seating at the banquet tables until the many well-wishers departed for their homes late in the night.

George Sennett presided as toastmaster, Mose Goldberg and his brother Avery, the former once the vaudeville partner of Bob Dailey, and Mr. Dailey himself made a tremendous hit with a long list of original songs written especially for the occasion, together with the piano accompaniment composed by Mose Goldberg. Of course, the groom-to-be was the center of attention throughout the dining period, the banqueters were kept in a continual uproar with these mirth-provoking numbers.

Edward Schwartz, Fred Schmidt, City Commissioners Roy M. Cummings and Peter J. Goodman, Tom McKelvie, Roger C. Cunningham, W. H. Dougherty, Dr. W. H. McGinnis, and Ray Edler were called upon and enjoyed the evening with after dinner repartee, amidst which the beneficiaries extended considerable advice, and to effect conspicuousness in the art of handling the weaker but fairer sex. Musical numbers and solos from Walter W. Cern, Carl Bay Fuzel, Howard Clithero, Edward J. Leary, Dr. Steward F. Richards, Tom McKelvie and J. Francis Connors were much enjoyed. The program was wholly in earnest, but the numbers were of such an excellent nature that each who responded was forced to give several encores.

"Bill" had his turn just before toastmaster Sennett advised him to look back of him to see the wedding present his many friends had each a share in presenting. It was a beautiful buffet, and to effect conspicuousness had been decorated with cut glass and electric lamps. The surprise was complete, and with a voice filled with emotion he appreciated the testimonial, the one of a democratic gathering of the young men of the city. At each place at the table were two cards, one a small white rectangle containing the words of the chorus of "Good Bye Dear Old Bachelor Days." Before being seated a lusty chorus shouted out for "Bill" his adieu to erstwhile bachelorhood. The other card, a folded one and larger, bore the guest of honor's picture on the cover, and inside a clever bit of praise for him, beginning the first word of each sentence with the corresponding letter in his name.

ERNEST PHILIPPS QUIETLY MARRIED

High School Teacher Steals March on Friends.—Married in Milwaukee on Nov. 11th.

When Ernest J. Philipps of the faculty of the Janesville high school took his place at the head of the assembly this morning, he was greeted with the applause of the entire school. For the report of the recent marriage which had last been spread throughout the student body. On the eleventh of November Mr. Philipps quietly left for his home in Milwaukee without arousing the suspicions of any of his friends, and as quietly returned for school the following Monday morning.

Not until last evening did he say anything about the wedding which occurred on the eleventh. The bride was Miss Helen Dougherty of Milwaukee. As soon as Mr. Philipps can locate the quarters of the girl, bring Mrs. Philipps to this city to live.

Although a young man, Mr. Philipps has established a very fine record as a student and instructor. He graduated with high honors from the University of Wisconsin last spring; while there he was elected to the honorary scholastic society, Phi Beta Kappa, and during his brief stay in Janesville he has made many friends among his fellow faculty members and among the pupils in his various classes. All join in wishing him all possible happiness and success.

RICKEY WILL LIKELY STICK WITH BROWNS

Branch Rickey.

Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Browns, has informed to friends that he will probably discontinue his relations with the Browns now that his contract has expired, and anyway he wants to go into the law. But Rickey's value to the club and his popularity with the fans are so great that he will probably sign the latter contract he will be offered.

Mystic Workers: Regular meeting tonight of the Mystic Workers at East Side 1, O. O. P. hall.

Evansville News

Evansville, Nov. 21.—Rev. Link, rector of the Episcopal church of Watertown, addressed the high school students yesterday morning. The rector called the attention of the students to the value and importance of the foundations which they were laying and as particularly laid emphasis upon the attitude which they took in pursuing their studies. It was Rev. Link's hypothesis that the attitude of the individual in high school would characterize the individual in later life.

Miss Crane, representative of a music publisher, was an Evansville visitor yesterday.

Miss Vee Rowley spent Monday in Chicago.

Mrs. J. D. Calkins spent Monday in Madison, where she visited friends.

Mrs. William Snyder was a Janesville visitor yesterday, where she attended a Sunday school convention.

It is probable that Evansville will be represented by a large delegation of boys and girls at the State Older People's and Young People's convention which will be held in Beloit and Madison, respectively, on the first, second and third of December.

Mrs. Isaac Shorman was a Janesville visitor yesterday, where she visited relatives.

Miss Anna Hodgson spent Sunday in Madison where she visited relatives.

H. O. Meyers was a Janesville caller yesterday afternoon.

Miss Pearl Ringhand visited among friends in Madison during the week-end.

The Ladies' Literary club met last evening.

Miss Helen Bestor was entertained by friends in Madison over the week-end.

The Reading Circle of the Baptist Young People will meet this evening at the home of Miss Ellen Ballard.

The Tuesday Evening club of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet this evening with Miss Irene Sherman.

Zulu Miller will entertain the Reading Circle of the Congregational church this evening at the Harter home.

Miss Elizabeth Miller of this city spent the week-end in Clinton, Wis., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ewert Evans.

Ernie Miller, who is attending the University high school in Madison, spent the week-end with his parents.

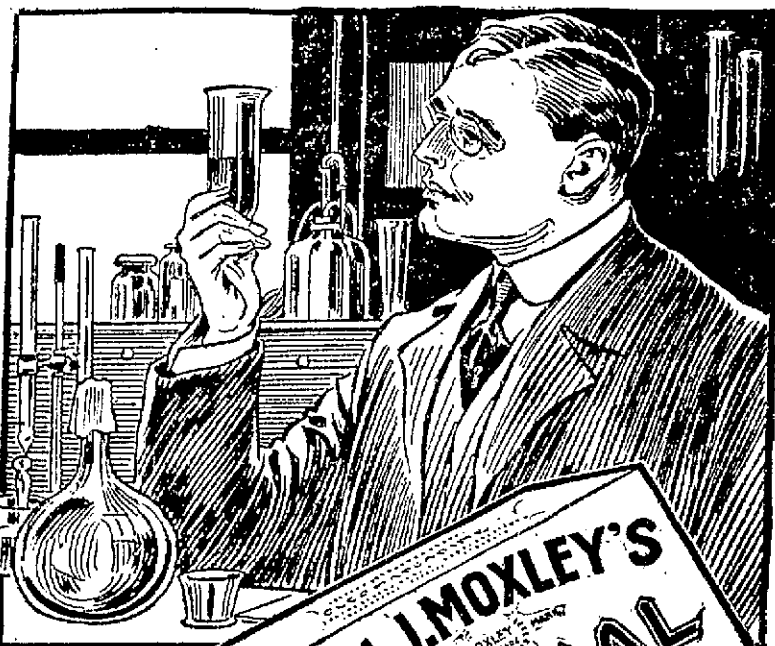

Shortly after seven o'clock last evening, the Janesville volunteer fire companies responded to a false alarm turned in from the Gus Adde home.

SHAW IS DISCUSSED AT DRAMATIC CLUB

Interesting Meeting Held on Monday Evening—Hear Report on Dramatic Section of State Convention.

A most interesting meeting of the Dramatic club was held last evening at the city hall, with a good attendance of members. After the necessary business was transacted, it was voted to have personal opinions of the plays of Echegary written up by members and submitted at the next meeting. The club is just beginning feeling the study of Bernard Shaw and his plays, and a comprehensive paper on "Bernard Shaw as the Man" was given by Miss Lucia. She spoke of his savage directness of purpose, when writing a play, and his lovable individuality when known personally. He was of Puritan descent, Irish parentage and a socialist in belief.

The first two acts of the play "You Never Can Tell," by Shaw, were read by a picked cast, the humor and satire of the playwright being well brought out.

The dramatic section at the state convention at Milwaukee was given by a local delegate to the meeting. Interesting facts about community theatres of the state and groups of amateur players were given. Note was made of the plays given under the supervision of the "Little Players" of Milwaukee, especially the "Blue Bird," with fifty school children in the cast. It was given to a packed house for popular prices of ten to twenty-five cents.

The Indian post Tagore was also brought to Milwaukee by them, under a guarantee of $800, and was given a royal reception. The still more expensive and the "Theatre of the Future" was also given, which will take the public besides the movies, if furnished to them at prices they can afford.

The engagement for a month of the "Wisconsin Players," another amateur company of Milwaukee, at the "Little Theatre" at Chicago was also mentioned. Both groups of players encourage the writing of worthy plays by home talent. The next meeting of the Dramatic club will be on next Monday.

Tom O'Kiech, a traveling salesman, spent the week-end in this city with his family.

Lydia Porter and Leon Patterson of Madison were week-end visitors at their respective homes.

Mrs. Will Griffith of Madison has been visiting in this city.

Belle Sperry has returned from the hospital.

Elzie Lee was a Milwaukee visitor yesterday.

Hugh Hyatt spent Monday evening in Janesville.

On Sunday, Miss Gilles motored to Beloit, where he spent the day.

Mrs. Geo. Wolfe, Jr. was a Janesville visitor on Monday.

Yesterday Mrs. A. R. Adams was a Janesville visitor.

Gordon and Harley Reckord are visiting at the E. J. Reckord home.

Alton and Fred L. Jones spent Monday in Janesville.

O. S. Shepherd was a Monday caller in the Bower City.

Fred Wood journeyed to the Bower City yesterday.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Stuart Holmes and his circular bed.

Villains are always interesting, and Stuart Holmes is especially so. Hence it is a pleasure to publish the accompanying photograph, which shows the star enjoying life in the quietness of his own home. He is shown reclining on his circular bed, resting after a hard day's work making life miserable for the hero and scheming for the heroine's hand. Holmes is a man of things oriental, and it will be observed that the room has a distinctly Chinese air.

ORDERS SKATING GOWN; SAYS IT'S PRACTICAL.

Evelyn Brent is having a new skating costume made, to be all ready for the skating craze that promises to rage harder this year than did last.

After a hard day's work in the studios, the little ingenue will find her needed relaxation in skating.

Evelyn says her costume is practical, that New York women as a rule think too much about how they look, and do not wear sensible outer clothes.

But then, Evelyn couldn't look ugly if she tried.

LOCAL COLOR.

Alfred Colter, who is ambitious to write film plays, spent his vacation in the studios at New York.

He was getting first-hand information concerning the needs of directors.

"I haven't learned how to write a successful movie," he says, "but I have learned how to say filum."

Marie Doris is to be starred in December in a movie "Oliver Twist." Hobart Bosworth will be Bill Sykes.

Jack Holt, the hero of the serial, "Liberty," carried the overland mail in Alaska for several years.

Norma Talmadge was married a few days ago to her manager, Joseph M. Schenck.

Practical Education.

The fact that maple sugar production in the province of Quebec, Canada, is increasing rapidly is due to establishment there of three schools devoted to teaching farmers how to make it.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

Wisconsin grows tons and tons of cabbage, and probably ranks fifth in the production of potatoes this year, grows excellent cranberries and is rivalled in this industry only by Massachusetts; it is famous for the flavor of its home-grown apples, which are not excelled in their quality and flavor by those of any other state, and turns out a thousand pounds of cheese a minute.

The facts suggested the preparation of a series of articles which are intended to stimulate pride in home-grown products and encourage their sale. They were planned for use as a series. The first one appears below and is on Badger rutabagas.

Prepared for the Gazette by Nellie Maxwell of the Department of the University of Wisconsin.

The turnip and rutabaga belong to our family of favorite vegetables, and hold an honored place in vegetable soups and hash, as well as in the menu for a boiled dinner. And who would think Thanksgiving dinner without a dish of mashed turnip or rutabaga?

Rutabaga, mashed, seasoned and mixed with crumbs and dipped in egg, then fried makes a delicious croquette or cutlet, according to its shape. Rutabagas have been used to take the place of the time-honored pumpkin pie, and is said to masquerade so well that the elected are deceived, at least they like the deception.

French Turnip.—Peel and wash the turnip and boil in salted water until tender. Drain and cut into cubes. Add a saucepan a tablespoon of butter and when bubbling hot add the same amount of flour. Cook until smooth, add a half teaspoon each of sugar, pepper, salt and chopped parsley to taste; just before serving, add a beaten egg, stir in a pint of thin cream or rich milk.

Turnip Cups.—Scoop out small even sized turnips and cook them until tender, use as cups for salad or any vegetable or meat. They are very attractive and not much trouble to prepare. The turnip cups may be filled with chopped, seasoned meats, and served as a garnish, or a few drops of lemon juice and a quarter of a cup of white sauce; cook until all is well seasoned and the vegetable is tender. Garnish with sliced pickles.

Rutabagas with Brains.—These brains belong to the calf. Peel the rutabagas and cut them in two inch lengths and place in a pan with butter, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Sprinkle over the mixture a set of calf's brains cut in dice, season well, cover with a buttered paper, and cover tightly; let simmer on the back of the stove for thirty minutes; add a few drops of lemon juice and a quarter of a cup of white sauce; cook until all is well seasoned and the vegetable is tender. Garnish with sliced pickles.

ARRIVING.
When you're shy on ability. What shall you do? What chance have you got in the go? It's easy enough, throw your shift to a bluff and your chances will take root and grow; peristaltic like the sparrow and grow; loved, milt, that's nothing but feathers and will, he does not complain, stick around raising Cain, he's never at ease, never will. His song is no warble of which he is proud, his looks are the least of his care, but leave it to him, he is always in trim in any old season he's there with chirp and with chatter he's right at your door, he's never discouraged or sad, he stays near the kitchen until he is fed, until a few crumbs he has had. He then flits away to a snow-covered roof, or lights on a frosty old tree, not giving a red, though you wish he were dead, he is and has been and shall be; the cold winds of winter don't seem to disturb, the hot summer days don't upset, he's nobody's friend, through a bluff he'll defend, the sparrow is nobody's pet. So if you have failed and you think you're a slump, a poor homeless boob with no class, throw your clutch into high, make a bluff and a try—a fortune on nerve you may Link H. Gingles

"The Prince of Graustark"

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON, author of "Graustark"

When George Barr McCutcheon wrote Graustark he struck a popular vein that swept the country. Then he wrote a sequel, The Prince of Graustark, that was a world best seller, even surpassing the original. The charm and fascination of this photoplay is unequalled. A handsome young prince, instilled with American independence and ideals, upsets all traditions of his kingdom by insisting on choosing his own wife. His adventures in searching for her in America fill the picture with thrills. He meets the girl of his dreams, pursues her across the sea to win her love—and finds she is a real princess.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo quite so frequently if your hair is properly cleansed each time by use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers may be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of caustic soda in a cup of water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to scalp and hair. After rinsing the scalp is fresh and clean, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.

Rheumatism After His Day's Outing

Hunting Trip on a Wet Day Bring Painful Results.

Once upon a time Charles Mullen, of Philadelphia, went gunning. It was a dismal rainy day, and long exposure to cold and wet brought on a severe attack of rheumatism. He was confined to his home for many days.

A friend recommended Sloan's Liniment, citing his own case as evidence of its effectiveness. Mullen bought a bottle and applied it to his aching limbs. Soon improvement was noticed and he was able to return to business.

Mr. Mullen writes: "Since that experience I have never been without Sloan's Liniment in the medicine chest." You will find it soothes bruises, sprains, toothache and relieves lame back, neuralgia, in fact all external pains. At all druggists, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

KILLS PAIN

What Fat Folks Should Do To Reduce Weight

Thousands of people suffer from excessive fatness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs, who, having tried advertised flesh-reducers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-oil creams, resign themselves to a life-long fatness and think nothing will make them thin. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of fat-reducing agents has made fat disappear after years of obesity, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for reducing flesh without weakening the digestive system or impoverishing the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Oil of Korein and comes in capsule form. Fat-reducing and system-building elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed by people everywhere, is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks systematic use of Korein should go far to reduce flesh and fat even after everything else has failed to bring the desired result. Smith Drug Co. and other good druggists everywhere are dispensing Oil of Korein in capsule form in the original sealed laboratory package. Get some today and use for yourself how quickly and harmlessly it works. Advertisement.

AND NOW HE'S LOOKING FOR THE AUTHOR OF "HOME, SWEET HOME."

The QUARTERBREED

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

(Copyright by Brown & Howell Co.)

"Very well," replied Hardy. "Since, like this poor girl's, her natural guardian is unfit, my position as acting agent requires me to take his place. My appeal to you as a gentleman having failed, I must conclude that you are not a gentleman. I shall be compelled to disclose this incident to Miss Dupont. You shall be escorted off the reservation under arrest."

"You'll order me?" cried Vandervyn, and again he bent forward as if to leap at his rival. Hardy stood cold and motionless in the dim starlight. The younger man checked himself. His voice shook with suppressed anger. "You've got the drop on me now. Wait till we hear from Washington."

"Until I am relieved from my present duty, I shall consider myself the guardian of everyone and everything belonging to the tribe," stated Hardy. There followed a silence of several moments' duration, in which Vandervyn must have found time to reflect. He drew back a step or two, lit his pipe, and at last remarked in a somewhat forced tone of conciliation: "I see you're like an army mule—no use trying to budge you when you balk. I give you my word to act as a gentleman in this affair."

"Very well," replied Hardy. Vandervyn started off, sucking at his pipe. Hardy turned about, and looked the door on the outside with the heavy padlock that hung loose in the jamb staple. He put the key in his pocket and walked around the cabin to make certain that there were no other openings larger than the narrow crevices of the hoopholes.

When he returned to the tree, he found Vandervyn already outstretched. He picked up his blankets and moved down the slope, to spend the night in the more congenial company of the two remaining Indian policemen.

CHAPTER XIV.

In White and Black.

In the morning Olna did not show herself outside the cabin, though Hardy called a kindly good morning to her. Her brother, with one arm carefully bandaged and in a sling, brought out the breakfast that she cooked. He looked so weak and unsteady that Hardy at once assented when he murmured that he wished to go back to bed and rest until the council.

"You must have your wits about you this time," added Hardy. "Whatever the cause of the misunderstanding at the first council, it must not recur. You are too careless in your interpretations. Inform your sister that she is to be present. I shall require her to check you."

"Would you make a girl as shy as she is stand up in a tribal council and interpret?" remonstrated Vandervyn, as Redbear slunk around the end of the cabin.

"The presence of her grandfather will give her courage," replied Hardy. "It is necessary that she should be present. I do not trust either the ability or the honesty of her brother."

Vandervyn shrugged, and said no more. Half an hour or so later he asked permission to use Hardy's pen and pad to write some letters. The captain handed them to him, and started up the mountainside above the tunnel mouth. A steep path led up to the top of the spur ridge from which the shaft had been sunk from the apex of the outcrop of the vein.

As soon as he had gone beyond earshot, Vandervyn rose to stretch himself and call softly through the nearest loophole. He then seated himself on his siddle and began to write. A listener would have had need to be near at hand to have heard the low murmur of Redbear's and Olna's voices through the loophole above Vandervyn's head.

When Hardy returned from his examination of the upper works of the mine, Vandervyn seated in his presence the two letters that he had written. They appeared decidedly thin, in view of the time that Vandervyn had spent in his writing and the number of sheets of paper gone from the pad. But Hardy did not observe this. His attention had been diverted by a large party of Indians that had appeared on the velvet green meadows of the valley bottom.

The tribal council had begun to assemble. This time the chiefs and headmen did not come alone. From far camps as well as near, the men of the tribe were bringing their families to see the Longknife chief whom they had first hated but now believed to be their friend and father. By noon their numbers had grown from scores to hundreds.

Shortly after the midday meal one of the Indian policemen brought word up to the cabin that the head chief had arrived and the council was ready to talk with the agent. Hardy at once gave command to mount. As soon as Hardy and Vandervyn started to ride down the slope, Olna slipped out, and held her brother's pony for him. She then mounted her own, and rode after him.

At the foot of the slope the riders came out through a grove of young, quaking aspens into sudden view of the picturesque and imposing tribal council. Fully half the tribe had gathered together for the occasion. All up and down the valley the meadows were dotted with their ponies. The Indians were assembled in a dense crowd—the men in a deep band around the chiefs, the women and children outside.

Hardy was greeted with a murmur of welcome and admiration, and the crowd made a path through their midst to the inner ring of the chiefs. Followed by Redbear, Vandervyn and Olna, he walked along the passage between the living walls of silent, furtive-eyed Indians, and seated himself on the blanket that had been spread for him beside old Ti-owa-konza. Shortly before the start down into the valley Vandervyn had again borrowed his superior's writing pad and fountain pen. He now sat down at Hardy's shoulder, with the pad and pen ready.

After a ceremonious silence the head chief's cry announced the purpose of the council. This was followed by declamations from three orators, whose main purpose seemed to be to give an exhibition of their ability in painting word pictures. When they had finished, Ti-owa-konza arose, and warmed the hearts of his people with an impassioned eulogy of their new friend, the chief of the Longknives, who had come to be a father to the tribe.

Hardy then explained the good that had resulted on other reservations from the taking of land in severalty, and advised that the council name a delegation of chiefs to go at once to Washington and ask for the confirmation of the new treaty. Motion then once during Redbear's interpretation of the acting agent's statements Olna betrayed surprise. Ti-owa-konza noticed this sooner than Hardy. He spoke to his granddaughter. The girl cast a timid look at Vandervyn and hesitated.

Her brother smiled cunningly and said: "It's all right. Tell him."

"What's that?" queried Hardy.

"Nothing—nothing, sir," quavered the girl. "Only, Charlie—he added something to what you said."

"I put in that you and Mr. Van would try to get them big pay for the mineral lands," boldly explained Redbear.

"Surely you've no objection to that, captain," remarked Vandervyn.

"Was that all?" Hardy asked the girl.

"Yes, sir. He only—"

"Very well. I have no objection to the statement. But I now must decidedly insist upon an exact interpretation of what I say. Miss Redbear, you will tell me at once if your brother either fails to interpret what I tell him or makes any additions."

"Yes, sir, if—" faltered Olna. Her covert glance of appeal met with a reassuring smile from Vandervyn. She ventured to look up at Hardy, and her voice became steeper: "Yes, sir, of course. Only Charlie was just trying to help, and he won't do it again."

Hardy resumed his explanations and advice. When he had finished, several more orators had to exhibit their eloquence. The council then proceeded to accept the acting agent's advice and name a delegation. As Ti-owa-konza insisted that he was too old to venture so long a journey among the white men, five or six younger sub-chiefs and headmen were chosen to represent the tribe.

During the closing ceremonies of the council Vandervyn leaned forward beside Hardy, and showed him an abbreviated but accurate memorandum of the proceedings.

"It's as well to have these things in black and white," he suggested. "We could get the chiefs to sign this before the council breaks up."

"Very good. A record may be valuable for future reference," agreed Hardy.

He rapidly read the writing, interpolated a few words, added a line, and gave it to Redbear to interpret. When the council acknowledged the accuracy of the memorandum, Hardy signed it, and asked the chiefs to add their marks, with Redbear and Olna acting as witnesses. At this Vandervyn volunteered to serve as penman, and officiously ordered Redbear to bring the chiefs over to a nearby bowlder, where they could more conveniently make their marks on the paper.

Hardy offered no objection to this. The council had finished its work, and there was nothing suspicious about Vandervyn's suggestion that the bowlder would afford an easy place for the chiefs to sign. He rose and returned to his mare, while the crowd flocked off to the bowlder after their chiefs. He did not see Vandervyn lay out two papers on the top of the rock, nor did he hear the smooth explanation that the agent wanted the chiefs to sign two copies of the memorandum. This statement was unhesitatingly interpreted by Redbear, and the chiefs, who knew by experience that most agency papers were signed in duplicate, made their crosses and thumb-prints as fast as Vandervyn wrote their names on the two papers.

Olna ventured to whisper to her brother that the papers did not look alike. He hastily repeated the remark to Vandervyn. The girl cringed close to her grandfather. But Vandervyn showed no anger. He smiled at her in a manner that brought a blissful glow into her soft eyes, and explained that one paper gave the proceedings of the council in full, while the other consisted of brief notes. He then murmured to her something that at first brought a shadow into her joyous face, but in the end left her radiant with happiness.

When the leading men of the tribe had signed the papers and Redbear and Olna had attested as witnesses, Vandervyn thrust the documents into his pocket and went to rejoin Hardy. As he handed over the paper that Hardy had signed, he remarked that, if there was no objection, Redbear and his sister would remain in the mountains with their grandfather until word should be received from the government for the tribal delegation to come on to Washington.

"You are ready to return to the agency with me?" asked Hardy.

"We can start at once, if you wish," assented Vandervyn.

"Very well," said Hardy. "The girl shall remain here, and you will come with me."

Vandervyn shrugged, smiled good-humoredly, and vaulted into his saddle.

Still doubtful of his companion, Hardy took the ponies of Redbear and Olna in lead, and rode over to where the brother and sister stood in the midst of their grandfather's immediate family. When the girl confirmed Vandervyn's statement that she wished to remain in the mountains, he took ceremonial leave of the noble old chief, and rode off to rejoin his party.

During the brief interval Vandervyn's gay humor had disappeared. He met Hardy with a frown, and held out one of the letters that he had written that morning. Seeing that it was addressed to himself, Hardy tore open the envelope and read the brief note within.

"So," he said, fixing the younger man with a level glance, "your resignation—to take effect at once. It is dated yesterday."

"It would have been dated and presented a week ago if I'd had the slightest idea you were going to insult me as you did yesterday," Vandervyn burst out angrily. "You'd have had it on the spot if I could have brought myself to borrow your pen and paper."

"I see," said Hardy. He reflected a moment, and remarked: "There seems to be no reason why I should not accept your resignation, if you insist upon my acting on it."

"I've Had Enough of Your Bullying."

"I do," said Vandervyn. "I've had enough of your bullying. I'm a free man now—not your clerk."

"You will change your tone, sir, if you wish to ride in my company," said Hardy, with a cool self-control that checked the other's anger.

This Simple Laxative A Household Necessity

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Should Have a Place in Every Home.

Constipation, or inaction of the bowels, a condition that nearly everyone experiences with more or less frequency, is the direct cause of much disease. When the bowels become clogged with refuse from the stomach, foul gases and poisons are generated, and unless the congestion is quickly relieved the system becomes weakened and most susceptible to attack.

Various remedies to relieve constipation are prescribed, but many of these contain cathartic or purgative agents that are harsh and violent in their action and shock the system. The most effective remedy is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

The Hon. John D. Keister of Brandywine, W. Va., who has represented his district in the State Legislature for six years, writes that he uses Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and finds it a splendid laxative, easy to take and mild, yet positive, in its action, and that it should be in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists in all parts of the United States and costs only fifty cents a bottle. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, does not gripe, and is recommended as a family laxative, mild enough for the tiniest babe, yet sufficiently powerful to act easily on the strongest constitution.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

JUST LOOK WHAT THOSE SOLDIERS ARE TRYING TO DO TO OUR CALENDAR

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, Nov. 21.—Even while the world war is raging around them, day dreamers and idealists have found time to send a few suggestions from the front trenches in Picardy. A corporal, inspired by the comfortable surroundings of a newly-captured German dugout, suggested that a new era for the world should be created immediately after the war is over, the year one beginning on the day peace is finally declared.

Another reformer is propounding the theory that at the end of the existing unpleasantness, the allies should return to the French Republic calendar, which begins the first month of the year on Sept. 22 instead of January 1, and renamed it the month of Vintage. The names of the other months are changed, according to the soldier idealist, to make life more cheerful. For instance, the second month would be known as Foggy, the third Sleety and others as Rainy, Windy, Budding, Flowery. Harvest and Winter, if this plan were adopted today would be Windy the Twelfth.

Thinking along the same lines, a third dreamer languishing in some shell crater out in Flanders, and he would have a week consist of ten days, the days to be renamed with terms of rhythm and poetry, grace and beauty. He also is inspired with the desire for a new era after the war.

There seems to be divergent views as to whether the first year of the new era should be named after the year one, A. P. (After Peace) or, The Year One, A. K. (After Knock-out).

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE EXPECTS TO DO MUCH

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21.—Statutory state wide prohibition, woman suffrage, a tonnage tax on Minnesota's iron, and reforms in state government that will follow the recommendations of a hard working economy and efficiency commission that began its work last year, will be the essential considerations of the 1917 sessions of the Minnesota state legislature, starting in January.

One of the first bills Senator E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria, will do will be the introduction of a state wide prohibition bill, provided for by the statutes, without submission to voters. He also is inspired with the desire for a new era after the war.

Tonnage taxes will be aimed largely at the United States Steel Corporation which controls much of the ore of the state. On mines it owns it pays a tax of eighteen cents a ton, whether or not the ore is mined. The State owns ten per cent of the mines in the state and leases them for which it is paid a royalty of 25 cents a ton, which will be replaced by a higher tonnage tax, probably.

John says: "The druggist told me that Dr. King's New Discovery was an old preparation and that he had sold it as long as he has had the store and when he used to be a drug clerk. He felt pretty sure it would fix your cold and I had seen it advertised. Glad you found an old friend." You try it.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEP'T

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

By Allen B. West.

Question—Can a center for the short course in agriculture at the University of Wisconsin without having completed high school?

Answer—The center for the short course in agriculture is open to graduates of high schools and to those who have completed the first year of college. It is one of the best opportunities for a young man to get a practical education in agriculture and to gain experience in the field.

What opportunities are open to graduates in the line of employment? Answer—These questions are all answered in a bulletin of the university on the Short Course in Agriculture, which may be obtained free on application to the university.

However, for the benefit of those who will not take the trouble to send for this literature, and who may be interested if they know what the short course offers, the questions will be answered here by quoting largely from the bulletins:

The Requirements for Admission to Short Course—Students should be at least sixteen years old and have a common school education to pursue the studies of the short course to best advantage. No entrance examination is required. Experience has shown that young men, at least twenty years of age, who have a general knowledge of farming, preferably with some practical experience, can get the greatest benefit from the course.

If a young man is attending high school, it is the wisest plan that he should finish his high school course before going to Madison. He will find it of advantage. Two young men of his age entered last year in the short course. One was a high school student with a rather limited farm experience. The other had more experience on the farm but no high school education. The first found the work interesting and profitable; the second, not having even a good common school education, found the work very difficult, and was often discouraged.

The time occupied by the course is twenty-eight weeks. It is divided into two terms of fourteen weeks each, beginning with the first week in December and continuing for fourteen weeks and then closing for a long vacation which lasts until the following December, when the second term begins. Students who are graduates of county schools of agriculture are admitted to the second year of the short course, provided they make their application for admission in the advance of the opening, which this year is December 1, registration beginning on that day and continuing until Dec. 2. The recitations begin Monday, Dec. 4.

The subjects taken up are those a knowledge of which is necessary for intelligent practical farming.

Agricultural Chemistry deals with the application of chemistry to the various branches of agriculture, including the study of the soil, the food of plants, and the food of animals.

Agricultural Economics gives methods of bookkeeping as applied to the farm and methods of taking farm inventories. It also deals with the management of farms, the laying out of fields and consideration of certain financial questions of farm help and other practical problems. It takes up also prices, markets, credits and farm contracts, and in another branch, called Rural Institutions, discusses problems peculiar to country life.

In Agronomy the work includes a study of the culture and management of crops, the improvement of the soil, and the use of farm crops for various purposes. Agricultural Engineering has to do with farm buildings and machinery, including silos, barns, concrete construction, gasoline engines and so forth. Animal Husbandry is a very practical study including live stock, breeding, judging, feeding, care and management. Use is made of the flocks and herds of the university farm, and of the various markets and dealers in the city.

In Farm Dairying students receive instruction in the general principles involved in the production of milk and cream for city markets, creameries and cheese factories and the making of butter on the farm.

Forestry shows the relation of forestry to agriculture, and includes use of the wood lot, wind-breaks, shelter belts, tree planting, propagation and protection.

Horticulture in the short course is designed to give the student knowledge of the principles underlying plant culture and their application to the growing of fruit and vegetable crops.

Plant Pathology deals with the control of the diseases of farm crops. Poultry Husbandry is also taken up and the department is equipped with modern poultry buildings and apparatus, and twenty-eight varieties of poultry are kept.

The Shop Work Departments includes elementary and advanced carpentry, elementary and advanced forging. In Soils there is work in soil fertility and land drainage, and there is laboratory practice in which the pupils apply the principles learned.

Veterinary Science is in charge of that prince among teachers Dr. A. S. Alexander. It is the aim and object of this department to qualify each student to act as an intelligent, capable nurse for ailing animals and to be able to recognize diseases and to give the first aid treatment where necessary.

As to whether one can spend his time to better advantage in the school or on a good farm, it would seem that a due consideration of what is out there would answer that question. No one farm can afford the material for instruction afforded at the university, and while the student may gain much from the practical experience on the farm, he cannot study underlying principles as in the short course, the purpose of which is set forth as follows in the largest amount of information and training in practical agriculture in the shortest possible time without undue crowding. This enables young farmers, unable to take a longer course, to gain many of the benefits to be secured at the college of agriculture.

2. To give this information at the season of the year when the work on the farm is the least pressing.

3. To enable young men from various portions of the state to associate with each other and meet prominent men from this and other states, and from foreign countries.

4. To awaken the young farmer to the many interesting facts and opportunities on the farm; to render him a more intelligent, useful citizen; to give him an inspiration along agricultural lines that will remain with him for life.

5. To help young men with little or no capital to secure positions where they can save money and gain valuable experience.

6. To uplift the farming interests of the state; to make better farms and more intelligent, useful citizens. As to the opportunities for the short course graduates the bulletins tell of great demand for well trained young men for responsible farm positions. During the year the employment office of the College of Agriculture received over 300 applications for help. There was call for assistants on dairy farms at $20 to $35 per month; herdsmen and feeders, $35 to $45; farm managers, $40 to $75; ranch foremen, $60 to $100; superintendents of farms, $40 to $100; teamsters, $30 to $40; tenants to operate farms on shares, etc. But not all short-course students go out to fill positions. Many return to their own home farm where, with increased knowledge, greater opportunities await them.

As to the expense of the course, the bulletin has the following: "Fees—All students pay the following fees: Incidental fee, $6.50; laboratory fee, $7.00; breakage and key deposit (unused portion refundable), total $13.50.

"Other Expenses—Students have reported living expenses during the Short Course as follows: Room and board, $75 to $90; books, suits and supplies, $20; fees, $15.00; miscellaneous expenses, $10 to $20; totals, about $100 to $140. It is possible for any thrifty student to take the Short Course for expenses just mentioned, although many voluntarily spend considerably more than that amount."

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Nov. 21.—Garner Taft passed away suddenly at his home on Jefferson street Sunday at the age of seventy-four years. Mr. Taft has been a resident here many years, and for the past eight years has suffered from paralytic strokes. He had been able to get down town at times, and was about town on Friday last. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Frances Taft, and four children, Mrs. C. S. Mullis of Riceville, Ia., Layton Taft of Le Roy, Minn., and Clifford and Clyde Taft of Lancaster, Wis.

Luther Hadley died at his home on Summit street last evening at seven o'clock. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Merritt Magoon and Miss Lottie Hadley.

A son was born here on Sunday to Professor and Mrs. E. G. Lange. Mrs. Lange was formerly Miss Margaret Godfrey.

CREPE ON VARSITY; GLOOM EVERYWHERE

Unexpected Lacing at Hands of Minnesota Takes Appetites of Wisconsin Followers.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—Plenty of gloom is present about the campus this morning as a result of the game at Minneapolis on last Saturday. The students who attended the game are telling very discouraging reports of the ability of the Badgers when under the force of the clever attack. After the first two touchdowns the men seemed to lose heart and after that it was only a case of the size of the score. The injuries to Captain Myers and Taylor in the early portion of the game seriously handicapped the Badgers and if the Wisconsin captain had not been forced to yield his place the size of the rout might have been lower.

Outdoor practice was on the card for the varsity team this afternoon at Camp Randall. Dr. Withington is not offering any excuses for the lack of action on the part of the team. He fully realizes that his men were outclassed and will bend his efforts to correcting the faults of the players in preparation for the Illinois contest. The defense of the Wisconsin eleven was very weak as Minnesota found little opposition in both halves through the line for line gains. The special offense as planned by Dr. Withington was given no chance to be tried as the Badgers had the ball but four times during the game. The first down was made on a forward pass, but the Badgers were forced to punt immediately afterwards so the team did not help materially.

LOCAL TEAM WINNER OPENING NEW ALLEYS

West Side Five Trims Beloit Stars and Roll Highest For City in Two Years.

What bowlers who have tried them claim to be the fastest alleys in Janesville were opened at the West Side last night. There are four of them and every one lighting fast. The Beloit Stars and the West Side team met in the opening tilt on the new courses. The Janesville team won, 256 to 235, and hung on to the highest total in the city for the past two years. Seven times in the match game the 200 mark was reached. Perkins of the All-Stars, had the highest single game total, 248. Dan Higgins of the West Siders, led his team with 208.

Following is the sheet:

	Beloit All-Stars	West Side
Dorrbuckner	141	178
Moskott	141	177

COLLEGE CROSS COUNTRY RUNNERS WILL COMPETE AT LAFAYETTE SATURDAY

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—Ten of the best cross country teams in the west will be present at the annual western college country meet to be held at Lafayette on Saturday. In addition to the eight conference schools Ames and Nebraska will be represented. Based on comparative times made in the runs held so far this year, Purdue has the shade on the field. In the recent Illinois-Purdue meet Campbell of the Boilermakers finished in 27:06. In this meet the first five men to finish were Purdue representatives showing that they are exceptionally strong or that Illinois is very weak. Arlie Schardt of Wisconsin is expected to lead the field, however, as he did last year and has been performing up to form this season. An injury to his leg last week has fully healed so he will lead the Badgers. The other men to represent Wisconsin are: Demmer, Lawson, Golden, Dayton and Burr.

William (Ducky) Holmes is now the big man of the Lincoln Western league club. He has been purchased by George Stoner, interest, having as his partner John T. Prince, a theatrical man of Lincoln. Holmes will be president as well as manager of the club and being the chief stockholder will dictate its policies.

HAVE PLAN TO MAKE UNIFORM GAME LAWS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—The granting of power to the state conservation commission to fix by order the open seasons for fish and game is one of the pieces of legislation which will come before the coming session of the legislature. It is believed that only by this method can uniformity be obtained. Another idea which will be advanced early in the session is the creation of a game law commission, which will require the submission of all game laws to the conservation commission before they can be introduced, except under a two-thirds vote of the body in which the measure is offered.

This latter action is contemplated because of the large number of game bills which come before every session. In Wisconsin in 1913 there were 132 game bills introduced. There were 1,000 copies of each of these bills printed and sometimes more; there were three roll calls and long discussion. The result is that the game laws of the state are not in a uniform form. Non-residents can pay a $10 license and come into Wisconsin and go out with thirty birds, whereas resident hunters can only take out fifteen.

One of the main measures to come before the next session of the legislature is a bill clothing the state conservation commission with many of the powers now exercised by other bodies by the railroad and industrial commission. The commission can hold hearings in the state and issue orders which will have the effect of law. The bill will give those interested in each community an opportunity to offer the facts in each case and permit the conservation commission to pass upon the exact merits. Members of the conservation commission are of the opinion that such a plan would remove many of the present conflicts in the laws and will aid in game conservation.

FEW WANT TICKETS TO SEE BADGERS MEET ILLINOIS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—The sale for the Wisconsin-Illinois football game on Saturday, closed today. The number of tickets applied for this year by mail is far below that of any other year. It is also expected that the Badgers' defeat at the hands of Minnesota will have an effect on the number of outsiders who will attend the contest. The public sale of tickets will open Friday, when all the seats remaining will be placed on sale for the public.

Though the University of Pittsburgh football heroes are not playing Yale, Harvard and others of the Big Six, the football experts of the east acknowledge them to be among the football stars of the country. After a great season last year, they are cleaning up everywhere again this season. Peck, the team's powerful captain, plays at center.

THE STOVE LEAGUE IS GETTING BUSY AND MANY BOSSES ARE BEING FIRED

Left to right, above, Clarke and Callahan. Below: Linker and Rowland.

The stove league is being called to early practice for the winter season. Several prominent managers have been fired and their successors elected. Frank Chance is reported as Tinker's successor and Jim Callahan is said to be booked for the Cubs or Red Sox. Clarence Rowland, says the stove league is through and Fred Clarke is rumored to be buying the Pirates.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

The national game is about to receive another airing in the United States courts. Attorneys for organized base ball, which embraces the two major and all the minor leagues governed by the national commission, have filed a voluminous answer to the $900,000 damage suit brought by the Federal league club, and the now celebrated case will be heard early in the coming year.

The trial probably will be a repetition of the long-drawn-out controversy between the defunct Federal league and organized base ball, which was dismissed by Judge Landis at the request of rival counsel last spring. But this time the Baltimore Feds, according to their legal advisers, will conduct a fight to the finish.

When the leaders of the defunct Federal league agreed to withdraw their circuit from the baseball arena last December their copartners in the minor leagues were left out in the cold. By the provision of the peace agreement the Wards, who backed the Brookfords, were to receive $400,000 in twenty annual payments of $20,000 each. Charles Weeghman, owner of the Chicago National league club, Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Feds, was allowed to buy the St. Louis American league franchise. Harry F. Sinclair, backer of the Newark Feds, was allowed to sell the release of certain star ball players for about $120,000 at the same time receiving a guarantee of $10,000 a year for the rent of the Harrison (N. J.) grounds, while Edward Gwinnier of the Pittfords agreed to close up shop for $50,000 cash.

As Kansas City and Buffalo Feds had gone into bankruptcy and had forfeited their franchise before peace was declared, they were left out of the negotiations. No provision was made for the backers of the Baltimore Feds, it seems, although the Fed leaders who signed the peace agreement insisted that they acted with the Baltimore club's consent.

But as soon as the so-called outlaw league had been officially said away to rest, the Baltimore stockholders declared war. They brought suit for $900,000, three times the amount of their alleged losses, and named both major leagues, the national commission, Weeghman, Sinclair and James A. Gilmore as defendants. They also charged organized ball with conspiracy and violation of the Sherman law.

To off set the charge that the Sherman law has been violated, attorneys for organized baseball will set forth there is no pooling of interests; that each club handles its own affairs, and that the league is not incorporated and that it is managed by the president to enforce the rules of the game. It will be shown that the comrol of the minor leagues is necessary to carry out plans for the betterment of the game, and that the national commission is nothing more than a board of arbitration to settle disputes.

Lee Tannehill, according to report from Jacksonville, is slated to be the new manager of the Jacksonville South Atlantic league team. Last season Tannehill played with South Bend in the Central league and is reserved by that club for 1917, but it is said a deal for his release can be made without difficulty.

The Brooklyn Dodgers indignantly rejected a proposition to play a series with the Athletics, but they have the courage to tackle the Yankees. The two teams will play a series of three games at Ebbets Field next April, just before the season opens. The teams played two games last spring and broke even.

By the way, it is just after this fight that Wolgast split with Tom Jones. Tom refused an offer of $17,500 for a bout with Packey McFarland because the weight was not to his liking. Wolgast always thought he could whip Packey and he was furious when he learned that Jones had turned the offer down. It is a curious fact that Packey ran out on three different matches with Wolgast after having signed.

While none of the National league club owners are ready to admit it, there is almost a certainty that when the old organization holds its annual meeting in New York in the early part of next month, the twenty-one player limit will be abolished for all time. The league may not go back to the twenty-five limit, but it is more than likely that every club will be permitted to carry at least twenty-three players next season.

Something must be accomplished and accomplished in a hurry to increase the playing strength in the National league, all observers agree. American league admirers after watching the Boston Red Sox and the Brooklyn Robins came to the conclusion that after all there is only one big league. And this major league is the one ruled by Bancroft B. Johnson.

This should be accomplished for the club owners in the National league to begin plans to strengthen their organization. And the quickest and best way is to abolish the twenty-one player limit rule. Every club should carry at least twenty-eight players and within a couple of years the National league would gain much strength.

The meeting of directors of National league will be exciting, to say the least. Besides the player limit there will be the McGraw incident to thrash out. McGraw and several of the players will be called to explain what really happened in the game between the Giants and the Robins in which the Brooklyn team clinched the National league pennant. Then there will be plenty of big trades which will keep the fans talking. McGraw would like to get another first class pitcher, while Robbie would give about six of his players for a real shortstop.

BILLY SUNDAY TYPE NECESSARY TO CATCH MEN IN FRONT RANKS

Rugged, Bulldozing Sermons Only Appeal to Hardened Soldiers.

London, Nov. 21.—No high sounding phrases and involved Bible quotations make a dent on the "Tommy" at the front. It's simple, soap-box, everyday language that army chaplains have to use if they get an audience. And all army sky pilots are doing it, according to an officer just back from the front. "Men who preached from immaculate pulpits in words of the higher education before the war are out there talking horse sense to the soldiers and are having no trouble to get congregations," said the officer. Here is a sample of the latest kind of sermon—the logic which the "Tommy" listens to and like:

"If what I am going to say is going to make an old woman of any of you men, forget it. If it will help you take a try at it."

"Now the first thing a fellow has got to get hold of is that someone is responsible for this outfit we call the world. Someone put it here. You won't find a shell in your bore or a feed in your nosebag unless someone has put it there. Very well, someone put this world where it is; someone put us here and someone is responsible for our being. That's God. I think that's horse sense."

"I know a man—a friend of mine, who fights and boxes for a living—a man with a hell of a punch—take his own part anywhere. He's not ashamed to say—or let you hear him say: 'Christ, help me to play the game.' You know what I mean by that—going straight with men and women. We all know what it means, doing your job and not doing the 'dirty' to anyone."

"What is there to be ashamed of if a man saying in his heart—he needn't say it aloud if he doesn't want to—(I believe in you Christ with all my heart. I know if I go square you'll stick to me and I'm going to try always to go square, and if you and me getting on the track, help me to get back."

"I don't want you to be a psalm singer, wear long hair or be don't drink don't smoke sort of fellows. I want you to be manly. It's hell boys for everyone to hate the sight of you because you're a rotter."

"Tell him boys that you're out to do a bit of good for yourselves; if you want him to help you go straight and clean; that you often find it a tough job; that you want a real true friend who knows the worst and the best of you and I'll warrant help will come."

The young chaplain who "preached" this particular "sermon" was an athletic young vicar from a fashionable community of London before the war. His weekly chat with the men is always looked forward to at a certain part of the front. After the chat he'll put on the gloves for a half an hour with any man who has the nerve to tackle him.

(THIS MAN HAD TO TRY TWO OR THREE TIMES BEFORE HE LEARNED TO TAKE A SMALL ENOUGH CHW.)

GOSH, I'VE FOUND IT—THE BEST TOBACCO I'VE EVER TUCKED AWAY IN MY JAW—AND SUCH A SMALL CHW MAKES GOOD.

I FOUND IT OUT TWO YEARS AGO, BUT YOU WOULDN'T LISTEN TO ME.

THINK OF ALL THE PRECIOUS TIME WASTED ON ORDINARY TOBACCO!

YOU probably realize the change that two years have made among tobacco users. Hundreds of W-B CUT users waited months before they were willing to try it. Changing from one old kind of tobacco to another never seemed to improve matters. But common sense was bound to win. Rich tobacco, shredded, lightly salted—no excess sweetening—that's as far as tobacco satisfaction can go, and what a big difference it makes!

TUBERCULOSIS WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED

Churches, Health Organizations and Others Will Take Part in Educational Campaign.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—Churches, health organizations and officials, and many civic bodies are co-operating to make tuberculosis week in Wisconsin, December 3 to 10, a success. This has become a national movement, aiming to secure within a week's time a simultaneous presentation of the subject of tuberculosis before the greatest possible number of people throughout the United States.

Dec. 6 has been set aside as Medical Examination day.

Dec. 8 will be Children's Health Crusade day.

Dec. 10 will be Tuberculosis Sunday.

The aim of tuberculosis week is educational. It is not essentially for the raising of funds for anti-tuberculosis work, although in some communities special collections may be taken. Emphasis is laid primarily on the great good which will come from an increased knowledge of the nature of the disease and the methods of prevention.

Last year over 15,000 churches and other organizations helped to spread the gospel of good health during tuberculosis week.

Medical Examination day will be the second annual effort on a national scale to induce everyone, sick or well, to have an annual physical examination. This does not necessarily mean that all who apply need be examined on that day, for appointments can be made for another day. In the case of factories, stores and other places where a system of protecting the health of the workers would be appropriate to the day. The intention is to popularize a movement which thousands of persons have already found to be one of the best ways of preventing illness.

Children's Health Crusade day will be devoted to interesting children in schools and elsewhere in public health plays, compositions, essays and orations on matters of public health, especially tuberculosis and the sale of the Cross Crusade.

The importance of personal hygiene.

Tuberculosis Sunday. The culmination of the week's campaign will be the celebration of Tuberculosis Sunday, with special emphasis on the part of churches and religious bodies in public health work. Tuberculosis Sunday is an anti-tuberculosis day of national movement. It has in past years, and will this year reach Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic, and all possible religious groups in this country. It has received the endorsement of leading church dignitaries of almost every creed and denomination. For those who worship on Sunday, Dec. 10, that day is set aside. It is not required that special sermons be preached on the subject of tuberculosis, although this may often be desirable. A brief talk in connection with some service, a discussion before a young people's society or some other special group, or even a printed announcement is sufficient to answer the requirements.

President Wilson has written a letter strongly endorsing the Tuberculosis day movement.

GERMAN WINE AUCTIONS TO BRING BIG PROFIT.

The Associated Press.

Thornes, Germany, Nov. 21.—The wine auctions of the 1915 vintage in the famous Moselle district are soon to begin with big profits expected. The wine is of not only of remarkably high quality but also the yield was almost phenomenal. Wine experts have exhausted their vocabulary in trying to find terms to describe it. Following the example of previous years they have adopted a nickname for last year's vintage, and the term selected not only expresses their judgment of wine but also a prediction that Germany will continue to be victorious; they call the 1915 vintage the "Victorious."

The wine yield of 1915 was so large that the auctions will have to be arranged in series through November and December, while a part will be carried over to the spring auctions.

The grape harvest last year was so abundant that many growers did not have casks and other vessels sufficient to accommodate the vintage, and many grapes had to be sold. And as for quality the experts assert that no such wine has been made on the Moselle since the year 1893.

FEW APPOINTMENTS BY STATE OFFICERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—The inauguration of the administration in January will see changes in the official personnel of the different state offices. It is expected that Gov. Philipp may appoint someone to act as private secretary, while L. C. Walker is serving in the position of chief of staff.

This appointment will go to R. B. Piley, who acted as the governor's private secretary for a time, and who was active in the management of the last campaign. The name of Carl MacAssey is also being mentioned in connection with this position. Unless the governor appoints Ray, who has been acting as secretary general, it is quite probable that the appointment of this man as executive counsel during the session of the legislature will be made. This appointment, however, is not yet decided.

When Toads Get New Suit.

Toads change their skin periodically. It is a most interesting performance, says a writer in the National Review. The old skin splits right down the back, and the toad proceeds to divest himself of it in exactly the same fashion as a human being takes off a jersey. The old skin, as it is pulled off, is rolled toward the reptile's mouth, where it disappears, for it is swallowed.

Everyone using Gazette Want Ads. is thoroughly enjoying their efforts to bring results. Have you used them? If not, why not?

PUSH U. S. RAILWAY IN ALASKAN WILDS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Seward, Alaska, Nov. 21.—Wm. C. Edes, Chairman of the Alaskan Engineering Commission, who recently returned from Anchorage, reports excellent progress on the construction of the United States railroad.

Fifty-nine miles of track have been laid from Anchorage, with the seventy-one miles of the old Alaska Northern railway that are now in operation to Kearn Creek, there have been completed 130 miles of the 470 that will connect Seward and Fairbanks. The track so far laid from Anchorage consists of six miles south toward Seward; thirty-eight miles of main line northward to Fairbanks, and fifteen miles of the Matanuska branch into the Matanuska coal fields.

The right of way has been cleared from Potter Creek on Turnagain Arm, to King's River, in the Matanuska coal field, a distance of seventy-seven miles, and on the main line from Matanuska to the Little Susitna river. Rail will be laid this fall as far as King's River.

Grading of the right of way will proceed in this section from Talkeetna to Willow Creek, and north to Broad Pass. At Willow Creek it will connect with the work under the Alaska Railroad, and at Broad Pass with the work from the Nenana division.

Rail will be laid in the near future as far as Potter Creek, which is fifteen miles southeast of Anchorage on the Turnagain Arm, and from which point the rock work on Turnagain Arm will be attacked during the winter.

For the week ending September 9, 3,568 men were employed on the Alaska Railroad, which includes Alaska Railroad employees, stationmen and laborers, the August payroll being $268,350,000.

The population of Anchorage, which is the largest construction base on the railroad, is between 4,000 and 5,000. At Matanuska, the junction of the Matanuska branch with the main line, a townsite has been established by the Government and a town is now in course of development. There is also a small town at Moose Creek, about fifty miles from Anchorage, where the first mine on the railroad is in operation. At Wasilla, the name of the town where the railroad crosses the Knik-Willow Creek wagon road, several people are engaged in mining. It will be the distributing point for freight and supplies for the Willow Creek mining district. The Government is taking immediate steps to survey small townships at these places.

The railroad north and south from Anchorage passes through and develops a large agricultural country. There are now between 500 and 1,000 homesteaders along the line of the railroad in this section, and the agricultural land is being rapidly developed. The homesteaders are supplying a considerable portion of the food stuffs for the railroad employees and other people in that section of the country. Recently the Alaskan Engineering Commission contracted for 400 tons, or over 15,000 bushels of potatoes with the Matanuska farmers. Products are being hauled by the farmers to Matanuska and shipped over the railroad to Anchorage and other points along the line. There is a large number of homesteaders in the vicinity of the railroad, and the Government hopes to encourage farmers from the States to come to Alaska and take up homesteads in the territory tributary to the railroad in order to develop the agricultural lands so that the country may some day in the near future be self-supporting.

BIG POTATO SHOW ON AT EAU CLAIRE

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 21.—The largest Potato Show and State convention in America was opened here today by the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association. Potato growers, commission men and college farmers filled the city for the show. More than $375 in cash prizes will be awarded individuals.

Among the classes of exhibits will be these: Standard and varieties country booths, potato club and school contests, seed certification, certification exhibits, exhibit of separate brands and potato disease and insect pests. There will also be a demonstration of potato cooking and sorting and grading of tubers. More than a dozen counties have entered exhibits. Among them are: Oconto, Oneida, Marinette, Portage, Waupaca, Langlade, Lincoln, Waushara, Bayfield and Wood counties.

Besides the officers—J. W. Hicks, president; O. C. Woodard, vice-president; J. G. Milward, Madison, secretary-treasurer; national experts on potato growing and transportation will speak. Other serious or severe reason has aroused considerable interest in several cultural matters pertaining to potato growing.

Wisconsin people do not generally understand the size and scope of the potato industry in the state. Neither is it generally understood around the state that this industry is better organized in Wisconsin than in any other state in the union," said Secretary Milward. "Wisconsin people have been brought face to face this year with somewhat abnormal conditions due to high prices prevailing for potatoes. The oldest potato grower in the state cannot recall such a severe season as the one just passed. As these conditions hold over a large amount of the potato producing territory it has resulted decidedly in a crop shortage. The unusual conditions which growers have faced have created considerable interest in the convention."

Scene of the New Italian Offensive, The Carso, Extremely Barren Plain

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The Carso, or Karst plateau as it is more familiarly known, the scene of the newly inaugurated Italian offensive against the Austrians is the subject of the following war geography bulletin issued from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

So distinctive in appearance is that the Karst (Italian form Carso) that the term "karst landscape" is now frequently employed to define similar regions of barren, pockmarked, "pockmarked" with lime-stones and grottoes, and seamed with subterranean streams which now and then appear suddenly above the ground, then disappear again.

"The Karst plateau rises some distance to the south of the city of Gorizia, on the Isonzo, one of the most important Austrian strongholds captured by the Italians since they entered the war. The elevation extends to the southeast, varying in width from 60 to 90 miles. It forms a boundary between the Austrian duchy of Carniola, to the northeast, and the Istrian peninsula which juts into the Adriatic below Trieste.

"The Wipbach or Vipava river, which flows along the northern base of the plateau, is one of the tributaries of the Isonzo. The Italians were forced to fight their way across the valley of this stream in order to gain the Karst heights from which to continue the drive against Trieste.

"The Karst plateau has not always been a barren waste of grey rock. In ancient times the heights are said to have been covered with magnificent forests, but the Romans ruthlessly destroyed these trees to secure timber for their galleys. In recent years the Austrian government has gone systematically about the task of making this district once more a forest land, and the traveler frequently finds groves of young larch and pine which have been planted in pursuance of this plan.

"Among the most striking features of the Karst plateau are its numerous caves and grottoes, formed by subterranean rivers. The most famous of these is the Grotto of Adelsberg, fifty miles by rail northeast of Trieste. Before the war it was much frequented by tourists, on whom the 3,800 inhabitants of Adelsberg thrived. The grotto is lighted by electricity and is reached by rail northeast of Trieste. The "Brilliant" the "Belvedere" and other compartments, some of which are 150 feet in length and others as much as 165 feet high. Through the Grotto, a room 150 feet long and nearly 100 feet high, there flows the river Poik or Pivka, which becomes a subterranean stream in the vicinity of the Grotto.

"Many of the pools and streams in the caverns of the Karst contain a curious kind of fish which constitutes an important article of food for the peasants of the region, while above ground the stony wastes are infested with poisonous reptiles."
